

I think what it all boils down to is that the radio stations are scared that they are going to keep losing more and more customers to satellite radio. I would be scared if I was them. Just leave us alone and go worry about someone else.